The Society of St. John Chrysostom, Eastern Churches Journal, Eastern Christian Publications, and the Orientale Lumen Foundation announce a popular and scholarly conference for lay men, lay women, religious and clergy entitled Orientale Lumen XV. The theme for this year’s conference will be “Rome and the Communion of Churches: Bishop, Patriarch or Pope?”

It will be held:

June 20–23rd 2011 at the Washington Retreat House, Washington, DC

Open to the public, but requiring pre-registration, the conference will provide an opportunity for Roman Catholics, Eastern Orthodox, Eastern Catholics and Oriental Orthodox to gather, discuss and learn about their respective traditions. It will include presentations by scholars and theologians, liturgical celebrations of many varieties, and opportunities for everyone to learn from each other and participate in a “dialogue of love and understanding.”

Each speaker will discuss the conference theme of “Rome and the Communion of Churches: Bishop, Patriarch or Pope?” from the perspective of his/her own tradition and expertise. They will review various aspects of the ecclesiology of the Orthodox and Catholic Churches, especially related to the role of the office of Pope. A special closing session will review and discuss the recent “Vision of Unity” document produced by the North American Orthodox-Catholic Consultation.

Each plenary will conclude with a limited discussion period among the speakers and questions from the audience. All of the papers presented will be published and provided to all attendees in a Proceedings book after the conference. A special booklet will be prepared for full participation in the liturgical services. Opening and closing remarks will be provided by the moderator, conference hosts and other Church hierarchs. Audio and video recordings of all plenary sessions and liturgical services will be made available after the conference through OLTv.

Sample videos from past conferences can be viewed at www.oltv.tv.
